

PSALM 118:24, This is the day the LORD has made; We will rejoice and be glad in it.

Every day is a gift from God. The Father forms and fashions each day and places us right in the middle of it. This means that each day and its activities have unlimited potential to eternally touch someone's life with the love, grace and mercy of the Lord. The key is to see ministry not as an activity that we perform after everything else we "have to do" is finished, but rather to see ministry as something that naturally flows from our lives as we go about our day.

If we will embrace this truth, we will find that doors of exciting ministry will open before us. We will find opportunities abounding to bring powerful ministry to so many people that up to now we overlooked while we gazed with longing for the day when we would be free to "serve the Lord full time". Every day as a moment of time that has never been lived before by anyone. It is time to see that we have been redeemed and placed right where we find ourselves to make a difference in someone's life today. Don't waste anymore time waiting for time to minister. Redeem the day! Make it count for Jesus! Nothing could be more exciting than that!
