Perfection!

I used to think people that were fanatic about producing a perfect paper were just over the top. I mean, why redo a whole report for one small error? But in the last 5 years, I have had the opportunity to watch over 3000 people apply for employment where I work. Many were qualified and possessed the qualifications needed. Why were they not given a chance? Simple, their applications were not perfect. There might have been a grammar or spelling error, it could have been a spill on the application, or maybe the attire they chose, when they came into apply. They did not show pride in their work.

We as Christians should have produce perfection, to the best of our ability in all we do. After all, we represent the most perfect being - Jesus. When we do not give our best, we say to the world, it does not matter if you live life in a haphazard method, you can still make heaven. Beloved this is not true. God calls us to a higher calling. We are called to an excellence in all we do
