

Round and round and round the ball goes. We got Oliver a new toy and he spent all day Saturday trying to get the ball out of his new toy. But it just kept going around and around. It has been fun to watch and definitely kept him busy and wore him out. He slept all night and into this morning.

We as Christians sometimes go around and around a problem. We know it cannot change, but we keep going around the circle trying to get to the problem and fix it. Sometimes we worry and fret so much that we tire ourselves out, unable to keep awake to fight the next day.

We must instead of going around the problem, we must go through it - taking on our problems head on, and if we cannot change the problem, we must leave it in God's hands!
